" Spiritual Manifestations."

Yesterday morning, pureuant to advertisement, Rev. T. L. Harris presched in the Seventh Day Baptist Church in Eleventh street, near Fourth avenue, on " Spiritus Manifestations." He is a pale young man, of about 21 years of age, of an intellectual but enthusiastic cast of countecance. He took his text from St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, 9th chapter, commencing at verse 22, and concluding with the words, "Because a short work will the Lord make on the earth." The reverend gentleman said God had always communicated to man through mediums, but not by the false mediums of witchoraftincantations, and magnetism. He had communicated by angels, by apostles and prophets, and directly from his own person. When man was unfallen in Paraise, he had direct communication with God, and saw God and heard his voice. He had perfect organs then for such communication, but they were closed by sin in Adam and all his posterity. Christ came to make the mediums of bis poeterity. Christ came to make the mediums of communication perfect sgain—to make him pure in spirit and bodily immertal; and also to restore this earth, which was blasted on account of the sin of man and make it a paradise. Now its seasons were discordant and out of joint, and its animals and vegetables were discased God would make this earth a paradise again. Thus the Bible begins with unfailen man in paradise, and ends with redeemed man in paradise. Adam and Ere saw and heard God, and the seraphims, the brightest angels in Paradise and had perfect communication with them. This communication would be restored by Christ, when the redeemed shall become one harmonious family, and the external creation, also putilised and redeemed, shall be in harmony with the divinegrace in the scul. God had from the beginning revealed binself through mediums, and Noah, Abraham, Moses, and Jesus Christ were mediums. There were false mediums, too, much as the signs of Pharach's magicians and the crit spirits, which rent the man at the time of Christ; but the true mediums prevaited over the false. Man has evidently, in his organization the remains of organs which, when purified and restored, will bring him into communication again with the Spirit of the Universe. Adam had these organs, and it follows by the hereditary law of transmission that they exist in all men, though not in a healthful state, but obscured as they existed in Adam since the fall. God has instituted agencies by which there organs can be restored. The Bible was given by inspiration of God—word by word they existed in Adam since the fall. God has instituted agencies by which these organs can be restored. The Bible was given by inspiration of God—word by word and letter by letter. It was projected from the objective consciousness of God to the subjective consciousness of whomsoever he chose to make a medium. Christ was the great medium, and hence he was called the mediator between God and man. Christ's body never saw corruption, because it was filled with the Hoty Ghost; and the same spirit would be imparted to all who believed in him. The revealtors God now makes to redoemed spirits, by his word and the Hoty Ghost; are miraculous, for same spirit would be imparted to all who believed in him. The revelations God new makes to redeemed spirits, by his word and the Hely Gheet, are miraculous; for was it ever known before in the history of the world, that man was purified from the lusts of the flesh, and redeemed from the dominion of sin? The Spirit not only gave facts, but have and a structure. There was the New Jerusalem beyond the Alleghanies, where God was, at this moment, communicating by angels with his re-deemed. He concluded by praying that all might wake up to the New Jerusalem.

The Protestant Episcopal Mutual Benefit Society.

The second anniversary of the above society was colebrated in St Bartholomew's Church, last evening There was a large and fashionable attendance.

The annual report commerced by setting forth the objects and plan of the society. It stated that a meeting was held in January, 1850, at which five persons were present. A second meeting was held on the following day, at which a committee was appointed. and on the 19th of February the present constitution of the society was adopted. The object was to relieve members when sich, and to secure a decent burial members when sich, and to secure a decent burial and to succor the widows and orphans, and to promote amongst its members a Christian fellowship; and its further object was also its affect relief to those who were not members of the society. The weekly allowance in sick ness was $5, $50 were prescribed for funeral expenses, and widows received a certain allowance as the trustees should direct. The number of members was seventy-nine, nine clerical, and seventy lay members, and a fund of $1,208 41 had been received since the organization of the society. The society had been incorporated by the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had the privilege of greating charters to other societies throughout the State of New York, and had been established in Bertimore.

State. Onagidow had been assisted and thirty dollars had been appropriated for funeral expenses. Relief of had also been effored by means of voluntary subscriptions. A similar assessment had been established in Bertimore. The law W. A. Mublemberg, D. D., preached the anniversary sermon. He took for his text, Acts, 23 chapter, dith verse—"And all that believed were together, and all things were sommon, and they sold their poteentions of and goods, and parted with every men untainful need." This was the first record of the first mutual benefit scolety. It was charley in its plentings and partey, taking possession of every heart. Was it singly charty paper from the understanding? Head it no basis! It had indeed a basis, it was grounded on a commentered. They were an asygregation of persons rather than a congregation; they had believed, and they had faith in St. Peace's world, and were baptized; themederth they were now heart and mind, and bound my a common creed. Their faith in Christ was a faith in him, as a divise brother, for after his resurrection he addressed his disciples as breakness, as if his resurrection he addressed his disciples as breakness, as if his resurrection had mired the divise and human brotherhood in him. Their common creed was a helief of the mino of their nature with his Every man was thenceforth a brother, for after his resurrection had mired the divise and human brotherhood in him. Their common creed was a belief of the mino of their nature with his Every man was thenceforth a brother and became the blood relative of sli that guild, and the bood of the crees united the members of the human family scattered by projust sin. That was the basis of their charity. There was a community of goods, private interest, and begut indolence and dependence and would be an impediment in the way of industry, and it cuild only be supported by an infraction of the church. presented by the city of New York. Though a variety of charitable justifutions have been established by the Christian church, yet so overpowering are the claims and wants of the needy and wicked, in this city, that we can scarcely find the traces of these institutions, and it seems as if Haven must bestow another spirit on the hearts of the little flock, to whom the kingdom is to be given, before we can fairly grappie with these difficulties, and supply the wants and place them where the Christian religion can alone do. Mr. S. alluded to the spread of intemperance, and to the existence of six thousand grogehops in this city. The only way for Christians was, however, not to deeples the day of small things, but to attempt the reformation of a few, and seek to expand their efforts and embrace—year by year—a greatly increased number. He hoped this anniversary will be an era to the institution; and as this year thay averaged fifty children in their asylum, so maxt year they might average a hundred or a hundred and fifty.

Several other short addresses were made, and a collection taken in aid of the fands of the institution.

Police Intelligence.

AMALGAMATION, AND ELOPEMENT FROM BOSTON-PURSUIT OF THE INJURED HUSBAND-ARREST OF

THE GUILTY PARTIES IN THIS CITY.

About two weeks ago, a tall, intellectual looking negre, of light complexion, calling himself John Brown applied at the Police Court, before Justice Lothrop, for a warrant to arrest a white man, named George A. Morse, on a charge of stealing a trunk and eighty dollars in cash therein of his property, under the following circumstances:—

The negro, at the time he made the complaint, had with him a slender looking white woman, pretty good looking, and about twenty years of age, who, he said, was his lawful wife, they having been married in Boston some few months previously, and had since lived together se man and wife. The magis trate called her up, and the statements, as made by the n egro, she said were all true Frown then proceeded to tell the magistrate how and in what manner and circumstances Morse had robbed in what manner and circumstauce's Morse had robbed him.

Firstly, said the negro, I am well known in Boston—I keep an oyster salcon, and am doing a good business; and this man Morse, after my marriage was employed by ma sa help, but instead of attending exclusively to the opening of oysters, he was privately maxing love to my wife—(laughter, in which the wife joined with a smile)—and ultimately they were seen, in my absence, to lowe the house, and Morse took with him my trank, which contained $80, and they both cams on to this city together as man and wife, and put up, as I have since incarned, at the Philadelphia Hotel. As soon as I missed my wife and trank, I suspected Morse, and having tracked them to the railroad cars for this city. I forthwith came on in search of them. Here is my wife, who can answer for herself. To day, I was walking along Broadway, and meet her in the street—his then told me that the had been boarding at the Philadelphis Holei with Morse as man and wite, and that the trunk was the hotel, which the lauddord held for fitteen dollars board. Now Judge, all that I want is to have Morse arrested and held until I bring on the evidence sgalnat him from Beaton.

Megistrate.—How is this matter? Woman, are you Sesten Megistrate.-How is this matter? Weman, are you marned to this colored man?

Wife — Yes, sir, I am. But I took the trunk myself; it is my trunk—I did not see any money in the trunk— morse did not take the trunk.

Magistrate.—Are you an American Woman?

Wife—No, sir; I was born at St. Johns, New Brunz-

Magistrate—Then you are an Hoglish woman?

Mine—Yes, sir.

Negro—I can show you, Judge, that the meney was in the trunk, and that fitters was the man who convered it from the house, if you will only allow time for me to get the witness from Boston.

Magistrate—You must understand we have no law in from the house, if you will only allow time for me to get the witness from Boston.

Magistrate—You must understand we have no law in this state to punish Morse for adultery; and as to the damage done you by taking away your white wife, you must took to some civil remedy. But if you can exhibit to me a case of larceny on the part of this man, I would be very willing to issue a warrant for his apprehandion. The evidence at present, I do not think is of sufficient cirrength to arrest the man.

At this decision the negro was somewhat surprised, and replied to the Court that he would send on to Boston for the witness, and then make another application. I am aware, said the negro, that I cannot compel my wife to live with ms. If she den't feel inclined; but I do want to punish Morse for stealing my property. The negro then left the court, taking with him his erring wife.

Since that day nething has been heard of these parlies until perferdey, (Sunday.) when II appears the negro met his wife and the man Morse in the Park together, and as that was the first time they had met since leaving Becton, the negro called in the ald of policeman Coots, of the sixth ward Police, who, on the charge preferred by the caraged Othello, took the gay decolver into custody and conveyed him before Justice Lothron.

The facts as above stated, were again represented to the magistrate, with the additional fact that for the last two weeks the negro and his wile have been living together, and yesterday, suspecting his wile was still carrying on an intrigue with Morse followed her from the house, and caught them together in the Park when he caused the streat to be made. The magistrate, under the circumstances, committed Morse as a fagitive from justice, in other to allow time for the negro is bring on the evidence from Boston. The wife and her colored humbard left the court together; she protecting against the justice of bedding to the first wine as a fagitive from justice, in other to allow time for the negro is bring on the evidence from Bos
